Choose your arrival point and plan the final approach into the historic centre.

Compare current bus and train journeys using the operators. For a car, check Sigerico parking information and keep the restricted traffic zone out of your driving route unless you have confirmed authorization.

Why stop here

An arrival plan should include the last stretch, not just the intercity ticket. Siena’s railway station sits below the historic centre; bus arrival points and parking choices lead to different approaches. Choose the option that fits your luggage and first stop.

A useful visit

Start the one-day walk near Piazza Gramsci, or adapt it to your actual arrival. Leave a return buffer and confirm the final departure before committing to an evening event.

What to consider

Escalators, local buses and taxis can help with the approach, but check their current operation. A compact historic centre still has hills; allow more time with luggage or limited mobility.
